

HUDSON BARE OF WARSHIPS

OFF NOW TO PREPARE FOR BIG BATTLE MANOEUVRES.

Fleet Divides and After Some Practice One Part Will Attack the Atlantic Coast, Representing European Power at War With U. S. Other to Defend.

The Hudson River looked vacant and lonesome yesterday despite the press of ordinary traffic. For nine days the greatest of American fleets had taken up as much space in the fairway and had added so much to the life and interest of the inner harbor that its departure made an immense difference. By noon there wasn't a navy pennant to be seen. The vast fleet after saluting the President had gone to sea or scattered to various yards in obedience to the orders, which read: "After passing the Narrows those ships which return to the navy yard, New York, will leave the information upon which they carry out their orders. After passing out of Ambrose Channel the fleet will disperse and proceed in accordance with instructions."

When anchors were weighed on Thursday afternoon the veteran battleships of the fleet, the Indiana, Massachusetts, Maine and Iowa, were detached arbitrarily from the Atlantic fleet. They remained at their anchorages until yesterday morning, when they got underway and proceeded to the Longue Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia. They had served a distinct purpose in the mobilization, illustrating just how the United States navy has progressed from the days of the Spanish war.

Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, went to sea with sixteen battleships, a flotilla of destroyers and a complement of colliers, supply ships and other auxiliaries. Outside the Hook Osterhaus divided the Atlantic fleet, sending nine battleships to Hampton Roads and steaming north with seven. He arrived at Newport yesterday with the flagship Connecticut, the Michigan, champion of the navy for efficiency, the Louisiana, Vermont, Kansas, South Carolina and New Hampshire. With Osterhaus as commander of his second division was Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger. The Louisiana is his flagship. To Hampton Roads went Rear Admiral Aaron Ward and Thomas B. Howard with nine battleships and a destroyer flotilla. These commanders had under them the Minnesota, Admiral Ward's flagship, the Missouri, Mississippi, Idaho, Ohio, Virginia, Georgia, New Jersey and Nebraska.

For a few days Admiral Osterhaus and Admiral Badger will maneuver in Narragansett Bay, while Admiral Ward and Admiral Howard are increasing efficiency of the coast of Virginia. Then the extensive battle manoeuvres will begin, manoeuvres which will be an important test of the preparedness and efficiency of personnel and ships. The Navy Department has not made public the scheme, but it is known that the fleet under Admiral Ward and Howard will make up a theoretical squadron despatched to the coast of the United States by a European state with whom we are at war.

Rear Admiral Osterhaus and under him Rear Admiral Badger will attempt to intercept and defeat the attacking fleet. Their information will be of the most general nature. They will be informed only as to the probable intentions of the attacking squadron, and they will have no data as to route or direction.

The conflict may take place anywhere along the Atlantic coast, probably off New York city. In any event it is the intention of the Navy Department to reproduce as far as possible conditions that would obtain if we were actually at war with a naval power of Europe. Both Osterhaus and Badger have destroyed for scouts and their force is about equal with regard to power. Ward and Howard have more ships, but Osterhaus and Badger have for a squadron new and modern fighting machines. The manoeuvres are regarded by the Secretary of the Navy and his aides as the most important held in years.

Our two mightiest warships, the pair that attracted so much attention while anchored off the Washington Navy Yard in the mobilization, the Utah and Florida, did not go to sea. When the battleships and armored cruisers passed out of the North River at the opening of the mobilization, the two queens of the navy dropped out of line and anchored off Tompkinsville. They were followed to that anchorage by the superior gunboats of the Atlantic and the North Carolina. The four superdreadnoughts were joined off Tompkinsville by the cruisers of the Atlantic fleet, the Washington and the North Carolina. The four battleships and possibly the two armored cruisers are to be combined into the most powerful squadron in the history of the navy.

The Utah returned yesterday to the New York Navy Yard for further tuning up. The Florida will go back to be put into tip-top condition. With these big ships off Tompkinsville yesterday was a flotilla of submarines.

Detached from the fleet and returned to the New York Navy Yard yesterday were the Dixie, tender of the destroyer fleet, and the torpedo boat diviser, the ship Culgo, the yacht Mayflower and a whole flotilla of torpedo boats, including the Drayton, Paulding, McCall, Terry, Perkins, Storr, and others.

The scout cruiser Salem and the destroyer fleet were on duty at the order of the Secretary of the Navy that they are assigned to Atlantic City to wait for the aeronaut, Melvin C. Vaniman, to begin his voyage across the Atlantic. Vaniman's druggible, Akron, with which he intends to cross the ocean if that feat is possible, is ready for a start. If conditions are satisfactory the ship will be unshipped to-day. It will be the duty of the fast Salem and Roe to keep up with the airship and be ready to succor Vaniman if he falls into the ocean. Vaniman was chief engineer for Walter Wellman, whose attempt last year to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible ended in failure.

ALDRICH PLAN FINDS FAVOR.

Los Angeles Bankers and Business Men Meet Members of Commission.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 3.—Los Angeles bankers and financiers who represented perhaps a quarter of a billion dollars met with a sub-committee of the National Monetary Commission here to-day.

The sub-committee remained in session all day, giving bankers and business men an opportunity to express their views on the Aldrich plan for the revision of the currency system.

The members of the sub-committee who are here are Congressman Vreeland of New York and Price of Illinois and ex-Congressman Bonaguid of Colorado and McLaughlin of California.

Stoddard Jess, vice-president of the First National Bank, spoke in favor of many features of the Aldrich plan, but he favored the election of the board of governors by the directors rather than their appointment by the President.

Joseph F. Sartori, president of the Security Savings Bank, endorsed what Jess said, but added that State banks should be included with national banks.

President I. C. Drake of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank thinks trust companies should be included.

Other bankers and business men who were heard expressed approval of the main features, the only objections offered being to details.

LIND POISON IN BISSONETTE.

Coroner to Examine More Bodies—Ready to Arrest Mrs. Vermilya.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Police, Walter S. Holmes, Ralph W. Webster and Dr. E. H. LeCompt, who made an examination of the organs of Arthur Bissnette, say that arsenic has been found in abundant quantity and that his death undoubtedly resulted from that poison.

This statement was issued by Coroner Peter M. Hoffman late to-day.

Bissnette, who was a patrolman, died at Mercy Hospital on October 26 after being taken ill suddenly at the home of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, 415 East Twenty-ninth street.

Coroner Hoffman announced that he would examine two bodies immediately in a further investigation of fatalities among persons related to or closely associated with Mrs. Vermilya.

One of the bodies in which it is believed traces of poison may be found is that of Richard T. Smith, the Illinois Central Railroad conductor, who died mysteriously on March 11 last at the home of Mrs. Vermilya.

Smith's friends have told the police that Smith said he had been threatened by C. C. Boyesen, an undertaker, who was friendly with Mrs. Vermilya, and that he had purchased a revolver for protection. The police found Smith's revolver in the possession of James O. Keefe, an employee of Boyesen. Although he has been questioned many times since the investigation, he has steadily refused to make any statement.

The Coroner is particularly interested in knowing how it happened that Boyesen appeared at Mercy Hospital five minutes after Bissnette died, a week ago last Thursday, and claimed the body. What other body the Coroner intends to examine for analytical purposes he would not say.

He said, however, that he had received a written order from a woman relative of the deceased to take up the remains and that a court order in this case was unnecessary.

It is possible that the bodies of nine persons will be taken from their graves before the investigation is completed. For reasons best known to the authorities interested in the case, Mrs. Vermilya has not been taken to a police cell. The warrant charging her with murder was taken out before Judge J. J. Connelley, who is conducting the investigation, whose death brought on the investigation.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

Two policemen are constantly on guard over Mrs. Vermilya at her home, 415 East Twenty-ninth street, to prevent her from escaping or from harming herself. In their hands the murder warrant has been placed, but it may be served at any moment's notice if she attempts to leave the house.

This arrangement was made by Capt. Harding, who is in charge of the investigation, which was participated in by State's Attorney Wayman, Coroner Hoffman, Chief of Police Mcweeney, Inspector Wheeler, Chief Harding and the three physicians who made the analysis of Bissnette's viscera. To all intents and purposes the woman is under arrest. If she was placed under arrest, the warrant would need to be placed on her.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

NATIONAL COMMISSION TO FIGHT SYNDICATE BASEBALL.

Herrmann and Johnson Have New Evidence Spalding to Take Lively Interest in Coming Crusade. Attell to His Killbane for Featherweight Title.

Syndicate baseball, which has threatened the life of the national game for years, will be attacked with unusual vigor by the National Baseball Commission this winter. August Herrmann, chairman and ban Johnson, are determined to inaugurate a policy that will drive syndicate ownership from the sport. Thomas J. Lynch, the other member of the commission, always conservative, has not yet declared himself on this point, but his friends say he will follow the lead of Herrmann and Johnson when the proper time comes.

It appears that evidence to prove that syndicate baseball actually exists in one of the major league cities is being gathered, and that, armed with it, the commission will attempt to force certain persons to sell out, rather than be subjected to the limelight. If the commission can furnish proof that syndicate ownership exists, it is said, is opposed to the first step, the commission will attempt to force certain persons to sell out, rather than be subjected to the limelight.

At home court, it is known, the Sultan's champion and he showed three medals presented to him by the Turkish ruler. The wrestler was attired in the orthodox garb of his native land. He wore loose trousers, a short tunic and a turban. He was colored shaggy, while his massive torso was encased in a short jacket and on his head was a turban as large as a miniature house.

It was said by Pierre that Courdrell had a temperate habit, but that he partakes of solid in keeping with his size. He ate and drank twice a day, the first meal consisting of four pounds of beefsteak, ten cups of coffee and a few other things. The second meal usually consists of chicken, three or four in number, with a corresponding amount of trimmings. The sum of $5 a day will be laid aside for Courdrell's expenses. George Botsford will train him, and he will be his manager.

Pierre said the Turk will meet everybody, first of all, and he would prefer a tussle with Frank Gotch for a big bet. He said that he would be willing to meet Gotch or Hackenschmidt, but for the time being he was willing to meet anybody. At that time the man from the land of the Sultan was out with a deft to wrestle any one for a stake of $200 a side.

There were no takers, and he had to go home finally without a bout. He is bound to match the time that it is too much of a job for him to travel abroad in search of glory and he leaves his native town in the neighborhood of 200,000, is satisfactory to Smith, with whom McManus had a conference this afternoon, when it was expected the deal would be closed. There was a lot of talk about the deal being under way for a week, have been conducted in Manhattan, and another conference between McManus and Smith will be held there to-morrow.

In an interview at Newark late to-night, McManus spoke hopefully of a sale. "The sale depends upon the adjustment of a minor detail," said McManus. "I had a conference with Mr. Smith in New York yesterday afternoon, and the proposition was made to me. I am waiting for the New York club people to accept my proposition on a minor detail. I am waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair."

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

The Non-Refillable Bottle
Its Mission

Protection for a good whiskey—that is the mission of the non-refillable bottle. And it is protecting a good whiskey in "Watchman"—a mighty good whiskey.

"Watchman" and some good mineral water make one of the most wholesome drinks you can put into your stomach. Try it.

Ye Olde
Watchman Whiskey
(In Non-refillable Bottles)

At Leading Clubs, Hotels, Cafes, Restaurants, and Dealers

GIGANTIC TURK HERE.

Courdrell, the Sultan's Wrestler, to Meet All Comers.

Courdrell, a gigantic Turkish wrestler who is here to meet all comers, arrived yesterday on the Carder Lodging, and last night in company with Anton Pierre, who brought over Youssouf, and George Botsford, the elephantine grappler, visited Park row. Some of the late stragglers for Brooklyn, who were in possession of liquids to keep out the first dash of winter, thought they had seen other things when the fearfully bulky form of the wrestler hove in sight and in a short time the row was cleared. The best way to form a correct idea of the Turk's dimensions was to put a big man alongside of him, and some of those who had an idea they were big were but mere pygmies in comparison.

At home court, it is known, the Sultan's champion and he showed three medals presented to him by the Turkish ruler. The wrestler was attired in the orthodox garb of his native land. He wore loose trousers, a short tunic and a turban. He was colored shaggy, while his massive torso was encased in a short jacket and on his head was a turban as large as a miniature house.

It was said by Pierre that Courdrell had a temperate habit, but that he partakes of solid in keeping with his size. He ate and drank twice a day, the first meal consisting of four pounds of beefsteak, ten cups of coffee and a few other things. The second meal usually consists of chicken, three or four in number, with a corresponding amount of trimmings. The sum of $5 a day will be laid aside for Courdrell's expenses. George Botsford will train him, and he will be his manager.

Pierre said the Turk will meet everybody, first of all, and he would prefer a tussle with Frank Gotch for a big bet. He said that he would be willing to meet Gotch or Hackenschmidt, but for the time being he was willing to meet anybody. At that time the man from the land of the Sultan was out with a deft to wrestle any one for a stake of $200 a side.

There were no takers, and he had to go home finally without a bout. He is bound to match the time that it is too much of a job for him to travel abroad in search of glory and he leaves his native town in the neighborhood of 200,000, is satisfactory to Smith, with whom McManus had a conference this afternoon, when it was expected the deal would be closed. There was a lot of talk about the deal being under way for a week, have been conducted in Manhattan, and another conference between McManus and Smith will be held there to-morrow.

In an interview at Newark late to-night, McManus spoke hopefully of a sale. "The sale depends upon the adjustment of a minor detail," said McManus. "I had a conference with Mr. Smith in New York yesterday afternoon, and the proposition was made to me. I am waiting for the New York club people to accept my proposition on a minor detail. I am waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair."

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter to be adjusted was, McManus declined to say. He said, however, that he thought it would be cleared up to-morrow. He said that he was waiting for the club owners to do with the financial part of the affair.

Just what the matter